THE SOCIAL ENVIRONMENT
OF
THE CITY OF ANAHEIM:
NEEDS AND RESOURCES

I. INTRODUCTION

The recent trend in federal revenue sharing has encouraged a greater participation on the part of cities in the general area of social services. Concurrently, the City of Anaheim has initiated a preliminary resource-need study in an effort to familiarize itself with the social needs of its community and the currently available social service agencies within the City as well as throughout the county.

II. DEFINITION OF GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

The ultimate objective of this task is to identify the special needs of Anaheim's community which are not being met under the existing configuration of various social service delivery systems and to define the role of the City in meeting those needs.

III. STRATEGY

In order to most effectively realize the basic objective outlined in paragraph II above, the pattern of analysis outlined below has been followed.

- A. Identify needs of Anaheim's community.
- B. Identify social service resources available to Anaheim citizens.
- C. On the basis of information obtained from III.A and III.B above, identify the weaknesses or voids in the existing social service structure which have resulted in unmet needs.
- D. Set forth a tentative recommendation for an alternative structure and define the role of the City in this effort.

IV. SYSTEM CONSTRAINTS

In the process of applying the strategy outlined in paragraph III.A above, the following constraints were recognized:

A. A resource analysis ideally involves a comprehensive study of the breadth and effectiveness of social service agencies with the ultimate goal of identifying areas of redundancy, overlap and weakness in order to introduce a coordinated system wherein existing resources are maximized through the elimination of unnecessary redundancy or overlap, and through the redistribution of resources to areas of weakness or voids.

1. A major limitation in this effort is found in the absence of an effective method of agency evaluation. Attempts of this nature have only emerged recently and, therefore, efforts of this sort are still in the development stage. Recently, the County of Orange Revenue Sharing Office has contracted with the University of California, Irvine to develop a methodology for the evaluation. Results of this research can be expected by the end of August, 1974.

2. Because of the foregoing fundamental limitation, resource analysis in Anaheim was necessarily limited to a relatively simple survey of services offered by existing social service agencies.

B. Because human problems are inherently complex and variable, the process of identifying social needs demands the availability of highly specialized and sophisticated information systems.

1. Here again significant constraints were encountered.

- a. Sources of available information were, by and large, inadequate for our purposes. Much potentially valuable data were presented in flat figures which did not lend themselves to geographical identification of problem areas (example: county welfare statistics).

In the process of applying the strategy outlined in paragraph 1.1.1.

where the following conditions were met:

1. A transport network already involves a comprehensive study of the creation and development of social network agencies with the ultimate goal of identifying areas of redundancy, overlap and weakness in order to reduce a coordinated system where existing resources are reallocated through the elimination of unnecessary redundancy or overlap, and through the reallocation of resources to areas of weakness or voids.

2. A major limitation in this effort is found in the absence of an effective method of group evaluation. Aspects of this matter have only recently been discussed, and the results of this work are still in the early stages. However, the Bureau of Change has been working with the method with the University of California. It is in developing a methodology for the evaluation. Results of this research can be expected by the end of August, 1972.

3. Because of the foregoing fundamental limitation, research conducted in America has necessarily limited to a relatively simple study of resources offered by existing social service agencies.

4. Because human resources are inherently complex and variable, the two-ness of identifying social needs demands the availability of highly specialized and sophisticated information systems.

5. Data from significant institutions were concentrated.

6. Sources of available information were, by and large, inadequate.

For our purposes, these potentially valuable data were presented in three stages which did not limit themselves to comprehensive identification of individual needs (computer search system available).

b. Socio-economic information which was compiled by the census bureau in 1970 did present data geographically. However, the size of census tracts by which this information was presented tended to dilute salient factors.

c. As brought forth at the March 1974 Rand Corporation Conference on "Social Indicators," statistical data of this sort is inherently limited by its one-dimensionality. It is unrealistic to rely wholly upon such statistical data to provide a fully rounded picture of complex social needs.

2. Because of the above considerations, it was decided that additional information must be obtained in order to lend depth and validity to statistical information previously compiled. Therefore, inputs from key individuals within the Anaheim community were solicited.

V. BACKGROUND

The City of Anaheim is the oldest city in Orange County, has the largest population and the highest proportion of total land in urban use in the County; therefore, the City has many of the social problems associated with older urban areas throughout the United States.

A. The 1970 Census of Population and Housing published by the United States Department of Commerce, Social and Economic Statistics Administration, revealed the following general characteristics of Anaheim:

1. Economic impoverishment is concentrated within the central portion of the City (see Figure 1); the average income for this area is 22 percent below the City-wide average (see Figure 2).

2. A heavy concentration of Spanish-speaking citizens is found in the upper portion of the low income area (see Figure 3).

6. The information contained in this report is confidential and should be treated as such. It is not to be distributed outside the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs, without the express written consent of the Director.

11. The information contained in this report is confidential and should be treated as such. It is not to be distributed outside the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs, without the express written consent of the Director.

B. The 1973 Report on the State of the County outlined the general socio-economic character of Anaheim.

1. The general area outlined in Figure 1 was also identified as the lowest socio-economic rank in the City.

2. Factors incorporated which combine to determine socio-economic rank are as follows:

- a. Rate of Aid to Families with Dependent Children.
- b. Adult probation rate.
- c. Percent Spanish.
- d. Percent families with public assistance income.
- e. Percent high school dropouts.
- f. Percent of families in poverty.
- g. Juvenile probation rate.
- h. Unemployment rate.
- i. Percent high school graduates.
- j. Percent skilled and semi-skilled laborers.
- k. Percent overcrowded housing.
- l. Median housing value.
- m. Median family income.
- n. Fertility ratio.
- o. Median rent.

VI. IDENTIFICATION OF NEEDS

B. General needs commonly recognized were as follows:

1. A localized resource and referral service. Although Community Referral Information Service (CRIS) does offer an excellent referral and information service, it was commonly believed that the physical distance of this organization (Santa Ana) from Anaheim has created a psychological resistance and that, therefore, many in need of service will not seek it.

2. An effective local outreach program. As will become evident in paragraph VII below on Available Resources, there are many social service agencies offering a wide variety of services. Through direct contact and experience, it was noted that too often, needs exist which are not being met because of a simple lack of awareness of the availability of these needs.

3. Bilingual assistance. As noted in paragraph V.A.2. above, a significant portion of the low-income area in Anaheim has a heavy concentration of Spanish-speaking citizens. Because of this communication barrier, it is difficult for that clientele to seek or receive needed services.

4. Immediate short-term assistance. Although public and private social service agencies do offer effective services, many are single-purpose agencies offering longer term services such as drug abuse, family counseling, aid to the disabled, and the like and cannot accommodate the more immediate needs frequently encountered by those interviewed. Most vital among these needs are shelter, food and transportation.

C. More specifically, needs outlined below were also recognized:

1. Day Care Services. In the City of Anaheim, there are currently 2,394 families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). Of those, there are 532 female heads of households with children under six years old receiving AFDC. This large group of families (and particularly those with only a female head) are manifestly in need of social services, but without adequate child care, these services cannot, and are not, sought out. It was also noted that this lack is attributed to absenteeism in high school. Older children often stay home in order to watch their younger siblings. At present, there are no child care centers in Anaheim. See Appendix 1 (page 14).

2. English as a Second Language. The Spanish-speaking population of the low-income area suffers an additional barrier to becoming self-sufficient. A working knowledge of English speaking and writing skills is prerequisite to obtaining education, vocational training and employment.

3. Willingness to learn. The survey in paragraph 2 A. 1 shows a willingness to learn on the part of the low-income group in the community. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language.

4. Willingness to learn. The survey in paragraph 2 A. 1 shows a willingness to learn on the part of the low-income group in the community. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language.

5. Willingness to learn. The survey in paragraph 2 A. 1 shows a willingness to learn on the part of the low-income group in the community. 6. Willingness to learn. The survey in paragraph 2 A. 1 shows a willingness to learn on the part of the low-income group in the community. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language.

7. Willingness to learn. The survey in paragraph 2 A. 1 shows a willingness to learn on the part of the low-income group in the community. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language. This willingness is shown in the fact that many of the low-income group are willing to learn and to be trained in the use of the Spanish language.

3. Legal Aid. There is presently only one non-profit aid service in Orange County (Legal Aid Society of Orange County). Legal advice on matters such as divorce, insurance, consumer affairs and the like is needed. Often, problems related to such matters either continue to perpetuate themselves, or become augmented because of inability to take appropriate remedial action.

4. Medical and Dental Services. Although there is a free clinic in Anaheim, its staff and facilities are not adequate to meet needs. The impact of this need is most keenly observed in schools where inadequate care too often adversely affects the learning process.

5. Social Planning in Redevelopment. Forthcoming redevelopment efforts will be taking place in the central-City area. Problems of relocation and psychological displacement should be dealt with as part of the planning process itself.

VII. IDENTIFICATION OF SOCIAL SERVICE RESOURCES

A comprehensive list of all non-profit social service agencies throughout Orange County was compiled by CRIS. From this list another directory has been compiled by this author which lists agencies by category and includes those social services agencies whose services are available to Anaheim citizens (see Appendix 2, Page 16). There was a total of approximately 80 agencies extrapolated from CRIS's directory whose services covered 15 different social service categories.

A. Not included in this directory are schools, hospitals, police and fire departments, and those agencies who either geographically restrict which clientele or are too geographically removed to be reasonably accessible.

3. Final Bill There is presently only one bill pending in the House of Representatives, the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008. This bill is currently being considered by the House Committee on Financial Services. The bill is designed to provide for the orderly liquidation of failed financial institutions, to prevent the systemic risk to the financial system that could result from the failure of a large financial institution, and to provide for the resolution of financial institutions in a manner that minimizes the impact on the financial system.

4. Regulatory and Oversight Issues Although there is a clear need for additional regulatory and oversight measures, the current regulatory framework is complex and overlapping. The current regulatory framework is based on a patchwork of laws and regulations, which creates a complex and overlapping regulatory environment. The current regulatory framework is based on a patchwork of laws and regulations, which creates a complex and overlapping regulatory environment.

5. Capital Planning and Stress Testing Furthermore, the current regulatory framework does not adequately address the need for capital planning and stress testing. The current regulatory framework does not adequately address the need for capital planning and stress testing.

6. Systemic Risk and Financial Stability The current regulatory framework does not adequately address the need for systemic risk and financial stability. The current regulatory framework does not adequately address the need for systemic risk and financial stability.

7. Consumer Protection The current regulatory framework does not adequately address the need for consumer protection. The current regulatory framework does not adequately address the need for consumer protection.

B. Only four agencies have been personally visited and interviewed.^{1/}
Time and budgetary restrictions have necessitated all subsequent information on these agencies to be obtained from mailed questionnaires. See Appendix 3, p 8

1. As of this date, approximately 20 out of 76 questionnaires have been returned.

2. When all questionnaires are returned, a report will be compiled which will basically follow the format established in the pilot projection on drug abuse services. See Appendix 4, page 52.

VIII. CONCLUSIONS

On the basis of the foregoing information, the following conclusions have been drawn.

A. Although a truly effective agency evaluation has yet to be accomplished a cursory review of available resources indicates that there is a wide variety of social services currently available.

B. However, many factors have combined to mitigate the effectiveness of these services. The most salient of these was outlined in paragraph VI.B above, and include:

1. Lack of awareness of available services by those in need.
2. Psychological reluctance to seek assistance from appropriate agencies owing to distance.
3. Inability to physically transport the needy to appropriate agencies.
4. Language barrier.

1. Melodyland Drug Prevention Center; Teen Challenge; Methadone Maintenance, Department of Mental Health; Drug Abuse Teams, Department of Mental Health.

C. It appears, therefore, that a purely localized outreach, information referral, and transportation service with a bilingual staff is a vital need of Anaheim's community.

D. Although the specific needs outlined in paragraph VI.C above cannot be considered to be exhaustive, they do indicate the major unmet needs of the community.

1. Establishing a localized information and referral service as suggested in paragraph VIII.C above is vitally necessary; but must be considered as only a step towards solving a larger problem.

2. In order to move beyond mere treatment of symptoms, the specific needs which are not being met must also be recognized and dealt with.

IX. RECOMMENDATIONS

In the course of this study, it has become apparent that the movement towards developing a more responsive and effective system of social service delivery will require the collective efforts and cooperation of local government, the county, and private, non-profit social service agencies. Social needs are human needs and tend to extend into many complex areas which must be dealt with collectively.

A. The newly formulated Anaheim Coordinating Council represents an important development in the direction of localizing social service efforts. To operate the program effectively, the support and cooperation of the City as well as other social service agencies will be needed. See Appendix 5, page 58.

B. In order to avoid fragmentation and duplication of social service efforts it is also recommended that a council tentatively consisting of the following representation be created in order to maximize the effectiveness

It is necessary to have a fairly balanced network, informationally, and transportation services with a minimum of cost to the user.

On the other hand, the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user, and the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user.

1. Establishing a local information and research network is necessary to provide a minimum of cost to the user, and the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user.

2. In order to have a minimum of cost to the user, the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user, and the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user.

2. Recommendations

In the course of this study, it has become apparent that the system is not only a means of providing a minimum of cost to the user, but it is also a means of providing a minimum of cost to the user, and the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user.

A. The newly developed system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user, and the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user. In order to have a minimum of cost to the user, the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user, and the system should be designed to provide a minimum of cost to the user.

MEMORANDUM

CITY OF ANAHEIM

May 10, 1974

To: BOB DAVIS
BILL BUTCHER

From: SANDY SONG HAYES SSA

SUBJECT: FUNDING AND OPERATIONAL COSTS OF DAY CARE CENTERS IN ORANGE COUNTY

1. In response to your request of May 6, 1974 to ascertain the cost of day care centers in other Orange County cities, the following is presented:

2. In the interest of clarification, the purposes, activities and clientele of day care centers must be distinguished from those of nursery schools.

(a) A day care center is typically geared toward a single working parent, and therefore, serves a wide age range, maintains extended working hours, and charges nominal fees.

(b) In contrast, a nursery school is typically focused toward providing social experience for pre-school children with two parents and therefore, is most commonly only half day, serves a limited age group, (usually 3-5) and charges substantial fees.

3. In contacting the Orange County Welfare Department, which is responsible for licensing day care centers and nursery schools and the Community Referral and Information Service (CRIS), it was determined that there are only four day care centers (as defined in 2a above) in Orange County. These are as follows:

Operating Cost Per Year

(a) El Modena Center - Orange	$81,572
(b) Maple Community Center - Fullerton	$114,390
(c) The Lamb School - Huntington Beach	$117,936
(d) The Wesley Center - Santa Ana	$161,750

4. A detailed outline of these day care centers is presented in Figure I.

5. It was noted that the majority of children receiving these day care services are children of families receiving "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" (AFDC) from the County Welfare Department and thus, the majority of families receiving day care services from these agencies pay no fees.

MEMORANDUM

CITY OF ANAHEIM

SUBJECT: FINANCIAL AND OPERATIONAL COSTS OF DAY CARE CENTERS IN ORANGE COUNTY

1. In response to your request of May 6, 1976 to determine the cost of day care centers in Orange County, the following is presented:

2. In the interest of identification, the purposes, activities and expenses of day care centers will be distinguished from those of nursery schools.

(a) A day care center is typically located toward a single working parent, and therefore, serves a wide age range, maintains extended working hours, and charges minimal fees.

(b) In contrast, a nursery school is typically located toward middle-class parents, and serves children with the parents and therefore, is more costly. It serves a limited age group, usually 2-5, and charges substantial fees.

3. In conducting the Orange County Health Department, which is responsible for licensing day care centers and nursery schools and the Community Health Department (CHD), it was determined that costs are only for day care centers (as defined in the above) in Orange County. These are as follows:

Estimated Costs Per Year

(a) El Modena Center - Orange	$81,232
(b) Hope Community Center - Fullerton	$114,380
(c) The First School - Huntington Beach	$117,036
(d) The Family Center - Tustin	$161,750

4. A detailed listing of these day care centers is presented in Figure 1.

5. It was noted that the majority of children in day care centers are from the lower income families. The majority of children in day care centers are from the lower income families. The majority of children in day care centers are from the lower income families.

6. Mr. Barker, Director of Social Programs in the County Revenue Sharing Office was also contacted to determine if any revenue sharing funds had been appropriated for day care centers.

(a) The only money appropriated for this purpose thus far is $15,000, which was recently granted to Parents Involvement Council in Santa Ana.

(b) The Parent Involvement Council is a day care center serving children from 6 months to 5 years old, which charges a flat fee of $65.00 per month (no sliding fee scale). This organization is primarily directed toward working mothers, or mothers who wish to return to school to further her education.

(1) This day care center is funded by fees, donations and scholarships.

(2) Service capacity is 54 children.

7. It has been determined from the 1970 census information that there are 532 families in Anaheim with a female head of household with children under six years old, which are receiving "Aid to Families with Dependent Children". The need for a day care center modeled after the four outlined in this report is apparent.

8. For future reference, the names and addresses of the four day care centers discussed in this report are listed in Appendix 1.

INTRODUCTION

The information presented herein was extrapolated from The People Book, issued by the Community Information and Referral Service (CRIS).

CRIS maintains a comprehensive file on currently operating social, educational, and medical services in Orange County. Program, funding, and eligibility information is obtained directly from each agency.

The data presented does not include the following areas:

1. Colleges
2. Fire Departments
3. Police Departments
4. Parks and Recreation Departments
5. Hospitals
6. Rest Homes

Most social service agencies do not geographically restrict their clientele. Therefore, although many of the agencies listed are not physically located in Anaheim, the extensive range of services presented are available to citizens of Anaheim in need of a particular service.

This information is current as of March 1973.. Periodic referral to CRIS is recommended to maintain the accuracy of these data.

The information presented herein was obtained from the Foreign Data, issued by the Department of Defense and State Department (1973).

DRUG ABUSE SERVICE

1. PURPOSE (Problem).

a.) The objective of this task is to inventory the 4 drug abuse service agencies identified in the social service agency data collection project in order to assess the levels of drug abuse services available to Anaheim citizens.

The agencies to be inventoried are as follows:

- (1) Teen Challenge.
- (2) Melodyland.
- (3) Methadone Maintenance - Orange County Department of Mental Health.
- (4) Drug Abuse Teams - Orange County Department of Mental Health.

2. BACKGROUND.

a. On the basis of information obtained from the Orange County Human Relations Report, Youth in Orange County, it was found that between 1969 and 1970, the number of juvenile drug arrests decreased by 38.7%, (from 833 in 1969 to 510% in 1972). Despite this decrease, it is commonly recognized that the drug abuse problem is still substantial. (See Figure 1. below).

1969 to 1972

CITY OF ANAHEIM

b. The problem is largely youth oriented--82% of drug abusers are below 25 years old^{1/}. Drugs abused range from soft, nonaddictive drugs (marijuana) to hard, narcotic drugs such as heroin, morphine, and codine. The most popularly abused narcotic drug is heroin^{2/}.

3. LEVELS OF SERVICE.

a. Teen Challenge: Teen Challenge is a private, nonprofit service agency providing drug education in local high schools, a 24-hour hot line, and personal counseling for drug abusers.

(1) It is staffed by 10 full-time workers and approximately 20 volunteers. All workers receive in-house training.

(2) Teen Challenge receives approximately 1,000 calls per year. Efforts to follow through with personal counseling is made subsequent to each call.

(3) The Orange County Teen Challenge is informally affiliated with the Riverside Christ Life School where ex-drug abusers are educationally and vocationally rehabilitated.

(4) The agency was unable to provide specific information regarding services received by Anaheim citizens. Because it is located in the City of Orange, and is geographically quite accessible to Anaheim citizens, and because Anaheim schools receive Teen Challenge drug education services, it is assumed by the Director that the agency does serve Anaheim's citizens.

(5) Teen Challenge is presently funded by United Way and private donations.

b. Melodyland Drug Prevention Center: Melodyland is a private service agency which provides a 24-hour hot line, educational programs, counseling, and job referral.

(1) Melodyland is staffed by 32 full time workers and approximately 60 volunteers.

(2) Over 7,000 calls are received each month, 500,000 young students have been reached in their educational program, and 2,000 ex-drug abusers have received job placement.

(3) The director of Melodyland offered a conservative estimate that 50 to 75 per cent of its clientele are Anaheim citizens.

1. U.S. Department of Justice, Drug Enforcement Administration Fact Sheet.

2. Ibid.

(4) Melodyland is funded entirely by donations and contributions.

c. Methadone Maintenance: Methadone Maintenance is part of the Orange County Department of Mental Health which provides out-patient methadone treatment for heroin addicts, and also provides ancillary social services which include counseling and assistance with incidental personal problems.

(1) In February 1974, methadone treatment was provided for 332 individuals in 26 Orange County cities.

(2) Forty five or 13.8 per cent of these individuals are Anaheim citizens.

d. Drug Abuse Teams: This agency is a part of the Orange County Mental Health which provides medical withdrawal treatment for drug abusers (other than heroin addicts) and long-term residential treatment. This agency also provides medical and psychological counseling for drug addicts.

(1) This agency contracts with the Metropolitan State Hospital in Orange County which provides long-term residential and out-patient treatment for County drug abusers.

(2) The Drug Abuse Teams are separated into six districts. Anaheim and Garden Grove comprise one district. Because of insufficient funding, the Anaheim-Garden Grove district is the only one without a special drug abuse team. Patients in that area are referred to any of the existing five districts. Therefore, no specific information on Anaheim citizens was available.

3. DISCUSSION.

a. From the information gathered from these four agencies, services relating to drug abuse can be categorized as follows:

- (1) Prevention - Drug education.
- (2) Initial crisis intervention - 24-hour hot lines.
- (3) Individual counseling.
- (4) Medical treatment.
- (5) Rehabilitation.

B. Figure 2. below indicates the distribution of these services.

4. CONCLUSION.

a. It appears that the areas of education, crisis intervention, and medical treatment are sufficiently covered by the agencies interviewed.

b. Both Melodyland and Teen Challenge maintained that insufficient staffing (which directly relates to funding) inhibit the full realization of personal counseling services. The number of staff compared with the number of telephone contacts support the validity of this contention.

c. The only available rehabilitation services are the Riverside Christ Life School which can accommodate only a limited number of individuals, and Melodyland's job referral services. The area of rehabilitation, therefore, is identified as a second area of weakness. This is supported by the fact that both Melodyland and Teen Challenge stated that live-in rehabilitation facilities would be of primary importance in the event that Federal funds would become available.

d. The four agencies interviewed are aware of each others' existence and do refer individuals from one agency to another as appropriate. However, future coordination would be inhibited by a basic philosophical difference between the County and private agencies. Melodyland in particular resists the idea of treating drug addiction (heroin) with another drug (methadone). Teen Challenge maintained that they would accept funds only on the condition of virtual non-interference.

e. Although Figure 2 reveals that each area of drug related services is covered by 2 or more agencies, this does not indicate any unnecessary redundancy or duplication.

The questionnaire was distributed to the participants in the form of a paper copy.

(1) Medical service is the only area which is centralized.

(2) The decentralized nature of education, crisis intervention and counseling serves a valuable and necessary function.

(a) Immediate aid is widely available,

(b) the varied philosophical orientation of these agencies makes a degree of personal choice available. The County is more scientific, and Teen Challenge and Melodyland have a heavy religious orientation.

f. Because three of the four agencies interviewed were unable to give precise information regarding the number of Anaheim citizens receiving drug related services, it is not possible to make an unequivocal determination regarding the extent of drug abuse problems in our city. However, on the basis of police reports of various Orange County cities, in addition to the general information obtained from the drug abuse agencies, it can be generally inferred that the drug abuse problem is significant. In 1972 the number of juvenile drug arrests of eight Orange County cities were reported as follows^{3/}:

(1) Huntington Beach	538
(2) Anaheim	510
(3) Santa Ana	300
(4) Garden Grove	257
(5) Fullerton	211
(6) Orange	184
(7) Placentia	134
(8) Buena Park	84

MEMORANDUM

CITY OF ANAHEIM

May 6, 1974

Bob Davis
Bill Butcher

From Sandy Hayes

1. On May 1, 1974, representatives from the City of Anaheim, United Fund and the Anaheim Coordinating Council met at United Fund North Orange County Headquarters to discuss the future activities of the newly proposed Coordinating Council. Those in attendance were as follows:

- a. John Collier and Sandy Hayes, Anaheim.
- b. John Peterson - United Fund
- c. Martha Neff, Reba Chase, Robert Gasio, Flo Tarlton and Eileen Anthony, Anaheim Coordinating Council.

2. The statement delivered by the proposed Coordinating Council helped greatly in clarifying some prior confusion regarding their purposes and objectives.

a. Their stated purposes are as follows:

- (1) To provide immediate assistance to needy Anaheim citizens.
- (2) To inform needy citizens of available services.
- (3) To maintain records of assistance provided.

b. The proposed methodology is as follows:

- (1) To set up an advisory council which will assist and train volunteers.
- (2) To arrange a central facility in Anaheim which will serve as a clearing house to refer needy families to appropriate agencies, and to provide services which cannot be obtained elsewhere. (In contrast to CRIS, which provides similar services on a regional wide basis, the Anaheim Coordinating Council's activities will be strictly localized in Anaheim).
- (3) To maintain records at the central facility of services provided.

3. The activities of this Coordinating Council are directed solely toward the citizens of Anaheim.

a. It is their primary function to operate as a resource center and to maximize the effectiveness of existing organizations by maintaining communication with existing organizations.

On May 1, 1974, representatives from the City of Anaheim, United Fund and the Anaheim Coordinating Council met at United Fund North Orange County headquarters to discuss the future activities of the newly proposed Coordinating Council. Those in attendance were as follows:

a. John Collier and Sandy Hayes, Anaheim

b. John Tipton - United Fund

c. Barbara Wolf, Santa Clara, Robert Davis, Bill Tipton and Ellen Johnson, Anaheim Coordinating Council

The statement delivered by the proposed Coordinating Council member agency in discussing their position regarding their purposes and objectives.

1. Their stated purposes are as follows:

(1) To provide immediate assistance to needy Anaheim citizens.

(2) To insure timely delivery of available services.

(3) To maintain records of activities provided.

2. The proposed methodology is as follows:

(1) To set up an advisory council which will assist and train volunteers.

(2) To arrange a central facility in Anaheim which will serve as a clearing house to refer needy families to appropriate agencies, and to provide services which cannot be obtained elsewhere. The Council, which provides other services on a regional wide basis, the Anaheim Coordinating Council's activities will be actively involved in Anaheim.

(3) To maintain records at the central facility of activities provided.

3. The activities of this Coordinating Council are directed solely toward the citizens of Anaheim.

4. It is their primary function to operate as a resource center and to coordinate the efforts of existing organizations by maintaining communication with existing organizations.

b. A secondary function of the council will be to provide the few immediate and short term services which are not available in other agencies.

- (1) Included in these services would be such things as transportation to the appropriate agency, emergency payment of bills, etc.
- (2) The maintenance of records would insure against the possible abuse of services.

4. While virtually all social service agencies in Orange County are regional rather than local, this Coordinating Council will offer the unique service of purely localized activities.

5. It also became very apparent during this meeting that the people comprising this Coordinating Council are particularly suited for this function because they work directly with the poverty population in their occupational activities.

6. In reference to our Social Service Agency Inventory project, it became clear to all in attendance that while obtaining program, funding, and clientele information from social service agencies is a vital effort towards understanding the depth and breath of available services, an equally vital effort should be to determine existing needs within Anaheim communities.

7. Therefore, future efforts will include contacting key people within Anaheim who will be able to give us information on existing needs. This will include school principals, particularly those in poverty areas, and Ministers.
